THE CHURCH NEXT

Church & Technology Summit 2025 Unveils Vision for the Future of Ministry

Washington, D.C. — June 11, 2025 — As the pace of change accelerates across culture, technology, and ministry, the Church is being called to rethink how it leads, disciples, and innovates. That's why this year's Church & Technology Summit (CTS) is anchored in a future-focused theme: The Church Next — a bold exploration of what's ahead at the intersection of faith, data, innovation, and digital culture.

Taking place September 29 – October 2, 2025, in the Greater Washington D.C. Area, CTS 2025 is set to be a landmark event for pastors, technologists, creatives, and church leaders who are ready to lead with vision and confidence in a rapidly changing world.

Equipping the Church for What's Next

This year's summit will feature eight targeted conference tracks, including: Artificial Intelligence, Entrepreneurship, Church Administration, IT & Emerging Technology, Creatives & Communications, Production Engineering, Lead & Executive Pastors and Worship Tech

Each track is carefully curated to deliver practical tools, strategic insight, and collaborative learning experiences. With over 30 speakers and more than 60 keynotes, masterclasses, and breakout sessions, attendees will gain access to a deep bench of expertise—from real-world case studies to cutting-edge innovations in ministry.

Visionary Keynotes from Church & Culture Leaders

CTS 2025 brings together an unparalleled lineup of keynote speakers who will speak directly to the diverse needs of the modern church. Featuring top voices like David Kinnaman, CEO of Barna Group; Dr. Nicole Martin, Chief Operating Officer at Christianity Today; Pastor YPJ Miller, Lead Pastor of Faith Alive Now; Pastor John Hannah, Lead Pastor of New Life

Covenant Church; and Adam Graber, Tech Ethicist and Co-Host of the Device & Virtue podcast. These keynote sessions will challenge and inspire leaders to build scalable, Spirit-led ministries that embrace both mission and innovation.

Faith + Innovation in Action

More than just a conference, CTS 2025 is a collaborative movement where theology meets technology, and where local churches are equipped to thrive in a new era of ministry. Expect hands-on learning, visionary talks, and dynamic networking opportunities designed to foster strategic partnerships and lasting transformation.

Whether you're pioneering new discipleship models through AI, reimagining Sunday worship with creative tech, or building systems to support long-term ministry growth, CTS is where future-minded leaders gather to get equipped.
